Go
Blue

NMCC President Tim Crowley (above) had the dubious honor of having the most money collected in his jar, with members of the campus community paying nearly $400 to see the president get a pie in his face. Robbie Krul (right), from the college's admissions office, came in second. Thanks to generous donations from the audience, all of the contest participants and even Chuck himself ended up with a pie in the face.

NMCC students and employees joined forces to "Go Blue" as part of a statewide and national effort on Friday, March 4, to draw attention to efforts to help prevent colon cancer, the second leading cause of cancer death in Maine and the United States. In addition to dressing in blue, the campus also raised $2,000 to be donated to the Colon Cancer Alliance. The day was dedicated to NMCC trade instructor Chuck Kelley (above center), who is a survivor of colon cancer, crediting early detection with saving his life. Check out more photos from this fun event at www.nmcc.edu.

Stop by the gym and check out this year's Job Fair on Thursday. Be sure to keep in mind the tips printed in the last two editions of the newsletter. If you missed them, check out the Weekly Bulletin on-line by clicking on the link on the NMCC home page at www.nmcc.edu.

Thanks...

A heartfelt thank you goes out to the entire campus community for their help in making the 5th biennial Senior Make-Over Day a huge success. Nearly 100 students enjoyed haircuts, make-up, clothing and resume help. A special thank-you to Rob Ottaviano and his staff for their work on the Etiquette Dinner, which was a new addition to this year's event. Again, thank you, students, for participating and thank you faculty and staff for the excellent work you do for students, for this event and every day.
