NMCC Students Move On Campus

Nearly 130 students, some from as far away as Florida, moved onto the Northern Maine Community College campus on Sunday, August 25, in preparation for the start of classes at the College on Monday. Most of the College's students are commuters.

NMCC Dean of Students Bill Egeler (far right) helps two students unload their vehicles and move into their home for the year in NMCC's Washington Hall. He was one of many staff and student leaders who greeted resident students and lent a hand with moving in.
